October. Bigger Marlin, Less Sailfish, Dorado, Yellowfin, Sharks, Jacks, Amberjack, Grouper, Snapper, Barracudas plus various other species. Methods: Trolling jet heads and Rapalas, Vertical jigging, Livebait and Bait fishing.

I would be happy to provide more information on methods etc if required.

Boats

9mts: The standard Senegalese blue water boat is 9 metres powered by a single 100 – 200hp outboard. Most have a 40hp auxiliary. They are spacious and offer a good fishing space for 3 anglers. I have fished extensively in these boats and they are safe seaworthy and have proven to be an excellent fishing platform. All are equipped with outriggers, GPS, Sounder and VHF.

Catamaran: There is also the option to fish from a number of the catamarans operating in the area. These are 12metres and offer a much larger deck space and more comfort. If clients wish to take partners or non anglers along these might be a good option; normally powered by two 75hp outboards. There is obviously an extra cost of around £140 per day for the charter of these larger boats.

Tackle

All the Dakar boats are equipped with quality 50lb and 80lb tackle suitable for the types of fishing described. However we are happy to offer advice to any member of your group who would wish to bring their own equipment.

Boat days include

*Skipper, Deckhand

Senegal

Senegal is bordered in the west by the Atlantic Ocean, north by Mauritania, the east by Mali and Guinea and in the South by the Guinea-Bissau. Its surface is of 196.720 km² and its population is estimated at 12.500.000 million (2007). Dakar is located at the Western end of Africa on the peninsula of Cape Verde. It is delimited by the point of Almadies in the North-West and by the Cape Manuel in the south. It is only a 5 hr flight from of the majority of European Capitals.

Climate:- Senegal is located in a semi-arid tropical zone and its climate is characterized by the alternation of the dry season (from November to July) and the rainy season (from August to September). Thanks to its position on edge of the Atlantic, Dakar profits from a soft climate with temperatures which oscillate between 18° in January and 35° in August. Sun all the year: Senegal is one of the sunniest countries on earth with more than 3000 hours on average per year.
